Current website(s) outdated

Current vs. coming website

- Current website – history.fo
- Parish registers, protocols for inheritance distribution, censuses etc.
- No search option, no OCR...
- Digital registries ASTA publicly accessible
 - Issues? Registries made for internal use
- More digitisation = more democratisation

Ideas for the future?

- More digital democracy – digitisation will continue
- But what collections should we seek to make accessible?
- How can we become more 'visible' on social media?
